

WEEK 10 DEF STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR TEAMS ON LESS THAN 55% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

DENVER BRONCOS VS PHI

Despite trading Von Miller, this defense played well against DAL last week. They will be facing a decent PHI offense that doesn't give up too many turnovers coming off consecutive games with more than one sack and one turnover. While I don't expect an excellent performance from them, I believe they can score a few points that won't cost you the win. Not my preferred option, but still worth considering.

2

CLEVELAND BROWNS @ NE

After a strong performance against CIN, they have struggled with consistency and will face a NE offense that doesn't make too many mistakes. So why am I recommending this defense then? The reason is, Damien Harris and Rhamondre Stevenson got injured last week, and if either were to miss this week, that would limit the run-heavy offense, making this defense a spot start.

GREEN BAY PACKERS VS SEA

This defense has been quietly one of the better defenses this season as they have been getting more than one sack and at least one turnover in eight out of their last nine games. I expect Russell Wilson and Chris Carson to return, which makes this a bit risky. However, I anticipate the SEA offense to have some rust as both guys return from their multi-week absences. This feels like double-digits or two points.

TENNESSEE TITANS VS NO

With more than one sack and one turnover in three consecutive games (defensive TD in back-to-back games), this defense has been on a roll and will be facing a NO offense that struggled against ATL for three quarters last week. This is my first option despite being on the bottom of my list, I will be looking to add them on all my rosters as a top streaming option with upside for a double-digit performance.
