

WEEK 6 DEF STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR TEAMS ON LESS THAN 50% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

INDIANAPOLIS COLTS VS HOU

After a tough loss to BAL last week, they'll be looking to bounce back against a divisional rival at home. Generating turnovers and sacks in every game this season, they are a top 12 defense and have been solid during most weeks, getting you more than a handful of points. This defense is one of my preferable streaming options, and I will be looking to add them in a couple of leagues.

CINCINNATI BENGALS @ DET

This defense is an intriguing option as they haven't been playing great despite one game this season. However, they are generating sacks (three or more in three games) and are facing a struggling DET offense dealing with an injured offensive line. I'm not expecting a top 10 performance from this defense, but they are talented enough to get a handful of points with a little bit of upside due to matchup.

MIAMI DOLPHINS @ JAX

Despite getting blown out last week, I'm not too worried about this defense facing a rookie QB who has given up an INT every game he scores a TD. While they haven't been impressive for most of the season, this is a spot start opportunity where we could be looking at double digits from this team. However, I can see a situation where they don't score much, and I would be cautious about this defense.

CHICAGO BEARS VS GB

It was tricky deciding between choosing the CHI or GB defense this week. Ultimately, it came down to the health of the GB offensive line and starting CB Jaire Alexander going on injured reserve. This defense has been playing well, generating three or sacks in the past four games, and will have an excellent opportunity to continue the streak. I'm looking at this defense as a spot start with some risk.
