

WEEK 11 QB STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR PLAYERS ON LESS THAN 60% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

JARED GOFF (DET) @ NYG

Despite disappointing me last week, he did play well with zero turnovers, throwing for over 225 yards and a touchdown. Unfortunately, he lacks the upside he showed in the first few games, failing to throw two touchdowns or surpass 250 passing yards in four of the past five games. Because of this, he's too risky in single QB leagues but becomes a mid-tier QB2 streaming option in superflex leagues. Facing a solid NYG defense, he's a desperation spot start.

2

TAYLOR HEINICKE/CARSON WENTZ (WAS) @ HOU

While Taylor Heinicke didn't play well last week, I'm confident he'll bounce back against a bottom-ten defense in yards per play, rushing yards per attempt, and passing yards per attempt. If Carson Wentz starts and returns from the injury, that makes it a more volatile option. Whoever starts is on the edge of streaming in single QB leagues, but he should be an immediate pickup in superflex leagues if you're in a pinch.

3

MARCUS MARIOTA (ATL) VS CHI

I'm sure you're sick of seeing him listed here, but when 20+ QBs don't meet my threshold (rostered in less than 60% of leagues) since many teams are holding two QBs in single QB leagues to navigate the bye weeks. Despite that, he has shown flashes, throwing at least two touchdowns in three of the past five games. Unfortunately, his floor is extremely low (he hasn't surpassed 150 passing yards in five of the past seven games). A real boom or bust option in superflex leagues.

4

ZACH WILSON (NYJ) @ NE

There's no logical reason to stream Zach Wilson; he has looked awful in recent games and has been incredibly inconsistent. He hasn't surpassed 200 passing yards in three of the past four games and has only thrown more than one touchdown once this season. This isn't a great matchup, as the NE defense is a top-five defense in generating sacks and turnovers, so it could get horrid. However, Wilson's running ability gives him some upside and makes him a boom-or-bust option in superflex leagues.

FOLLOW US @AKAMAIFANTASY

WWW.AKAMAIFANTASYFOOTBALL.COM