Derrick Henry accounted for 32% of the total yards on offense despite averaging less than four yards per attempt. He also had his second-highest receiving yards in a game this season (45).

Treylon Burks and Robert Woods accounted for more than a 50% target share combined, and Burks finished with 33% of the team's receiving yards while Woods surpassed 50 yards for the first time since Week 3.

Ryan Tannehill finished with a season-high 333 passing yards (first game over 275 passing yards this season). He averaged 12.3 yards per attempt and completed 81% of his attempts.

Treylon Burks led the team in receiving yards but got 45% from one big play at the end of the game. Outside of him and Woods, no other player surpassed 50 receiving yards or five targets.

TEN's defense played well, forcing multiple sacks and the only turnover in the game. They slowed down the rushing game (allowing less than 3.5 yards per carry) and stopped them on both 4th down attempts.

FINAL SCORE: TEN 27 - GB 17

1

Aaron Jones finishing with less than 50 rushing yards despite getting double-digit rushing attempts (first time since Week 3). He also was second in targets but with less than 25 receiving yards.

2

Aaron Rodgers didn't play well, averaging 5.8 yards per attempt while only completing 61% of his passes. He has thrown multiple touchdowns in four of the past five games but hasn't surpassed 300 yards, either.

3

Randall Cobb led the team in receiving yards despite tying for third on the team in targets (6). Allen Lazard led the team with 11 targets but was only the second player to reach 50 receiving yards.

4

Christian Watson continues his hot streak scoring five touchdowns in two games and averaging seven targets. After Last week, he was able to follow it up with another solid performance.

5

GB offensively was able to convert 3rd downs efficiently (7/14) however was unable to get started in the first half with only two drives while ending three of the last four drives in the 4th quarter with three and outs.
