

DEF STREAM WEEK 8

10/27/2020

These four DEF are streamable options and currently are rostered in less than 60% of Yahoo leagues.

INDIANAPOLIS COLTS @ DET

Coming off a bye week, that's the main reason why they have made this list. With double-digit performances in three out of the last five games, there's a reason to be targeting this defense against DET. While Golladay is healthy, they are not a dangerous offense to prevent me from targeting this above-average defense.

TENNESSEE TITANS @ CIN

I can see how this might not be a great option after a rough performance against HOU a couple of weeks ago. Facing against a promising but developing offense in CIN, there will be opportunities for turnovers. There will be a chance that this is another shootout, but I do not forget that Derrick Henry can control the time of possession against an injured defensive line.

GREEN BAY PACKERS VS MIN

It's strange to stream a defense that's facing a streamable QB, but here's my take. While this may be a high scoring affair, turnovers are likely to occur, and a defensive TD gives this defense some sort of floor and will get you a handful of points. Dalvin Cook's health is also an important factor, and if he plays, I may consider the next option instead, as I can also see this backfiring.

SEATTLE SEAHAWKS VS SF

Instead of trying to play it safe, you can take a chance with this defense that has given up more than 21 points in every game this season. They also have an interception or more in every game and a fumble recovery in four out of six games. Jimmy G is vulnerable to making mistakes, and with the injuries to the RB, there could be a scenario where this defense puts up more than a few.

