

WEEK 3 DEF STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR TEAMS ON LESS THAN 60% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

SEATTLE SEAHAWKS VS MIA

It does feel like cheating to target the offense that just lost its starting quarterback, and you might be right. Forcing multiple sacks over the past two games and holding their opponents to 20 points or less, this isn't a great defense, but it is definitely a solid option to stream for this week as I consider them to be a safe, high-floor defense that will get you a handful of points with the upside for more if they force a couple of turnovers or make a big play which is likely for this week.

2

DETROIT LIONS @ AZ

This recommendation is surprising, considering how good the AZ offense looked last week. But this DET defense has looked good over the past couple of weeks against some decent offenses (LAR & TB). During this span, they forced multiple sacks and a turnover in each game. While not my first choice, the hope is that DET will be able to score points, putting the AZ offense in a negative game script, which allows this defense to capitalize on a mistake.

3

TAMPA BAY BUCCANEERS VS DEN

Just like my SEA recommendation, this is a play against a bad DEN offense that doesn't look like it will improve anytime soon. Now, don't get me wrong, this isn't a good defense. They are injured and haven't been that impressive this season. However, each defense that faced DEN finished in the top ten for the week and that's what I'm forecasting here. They both forced multiple sacks and turnovers against this bad offense and because of that are one of my top options.

4

LAS VEGAS RAIDERS VS CAR

Even with Andy Dalton as the starting quarterback, I'm optimistic about this LV defense even though they didn't look great in their past two matchups against LAC and BAL. They forced a sack in each game and I anticipate that streak to continue, even with the improved CAR offensive line. That said, I'm not targeting this defense over the other options above. While people may be heavily targeting them, I would be slightly cautious of the potential downside if Dalton looks good.

FOLLOW US @AKAMAIFANTASY

WWW.AKAMAIFANTASYFOOTBALL.COM