

WEEK 7 QB STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR PLAYERS ON LESS THAN 70% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

SAM DARNOLD (MIN) VS DET

Coming off a bye week, he has a solid matchup against a decent DET defense that's in the top ten in scoring allowed but bottom ten in passing yards allowed. While he didn't look good in his last game, Darnold has been impressive otherwise, throwing multiple touchdowns in four of his previous five games and surpassing 250 passing yards in two of his last four games. He has some favorable matchups against LAR, IND, and JAX, making him my preferred streaming option this week.

2

GENO SMITH (SEA) @ ATL

While he hasn't been spectacular, his passing volume gives him a top-12 floor with over 300 yards in two of his last three games. He's also thrown a touchdown in every single game this season. However, his lack of upside is throwing only one touchdown each game. What has boosted him into the top 12 tier is that he became a rushing threat with over 35 yards in two of his last three games. Against an ATL defense that's better against the pass versus the run, Smith wouldn't be one of my top options.

3

JUSTIN HERBERT (LAC) @ AZ

It's just wild to see what the new LAC offense has done in terms of fantasy relevance for Justin Herbert. He has been injured and has become an afterthought in fantasy football. Besides last week, he hasn't surpassed 200 passing yards in a game and has thrown more than one touchdown in one game. However, he faces a vulnerable AZ defense in the bottom ten in rushing yards and points allowed. This matchup doesn't boost him into top-12 consideration, but he's a streaming option.

4

ANDY DALTON (CAR) @ WAS

Ever since his impressive performance in Week 2, he has come back down to earth but has been a serviceable streaming option over the past three weeks. During those games, he reached 220 yards and threw two touchdowns in two of them. Against a WAS defense that has looked better recently, this isn't the best matchup, but I'm still confident that he can continue to be a solid top-15 option as a perfect bye-week fill-in or a spot start in good matchups.

FOLLOW US @AKAMAIFANTASY

WWW.AKAMAIFANTASYFOOTBALL.COM