

WEEK 9 DEF STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR TEAMS ON LESS THAN 60% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

CHICAGO BEARS @ ARI

Despite last week's rough performance against a good WAS offense, this defense has been good, becoming a top-10 defense this season. They have forced multiple turnovers in three of their last four games, generated multiple sacks, and held teams to under 20 points during those games. Now they face an AZ offense that struggles with consistency and hasn't reached 20 points in half of their games this season, making this defense one of the top streaming options available.

NEW ORLEANS SAINTS @ CAR

This defense has been getting destroyed over the past four games, giving up at least 26 points in each game. However, they have generated a sack and/or turnover in each of those games, are facing a CAR offense that is bottom-five in scoring, and have failed to reach 21 points in four straight games. If Derek Carr returns, I would consider them a risky streaming option and would prefer any of the others above if I had a choice, but the matchup is too good to pass up.

WASHINGTON COMMANDERS @ NYG

Despite last week's underwhelming performance, this defense has played better recently. They have held their opponents to under 20 points in four of their last five games, generated multiple sacks, and forced a turnover in each of those games. This week, they get to face an NYG offense that has failed to reach 20 points in four of their last five games and failed to reach 10 points in two of their previous three. Despite a divisional matchup, this defense is one of the better streaming options.

PHILADELPHIA EAGLES VS JAC

Since their bye week in Week 5, they have been impressive. They have held their opponents to 10 points or less in two games and generated 14 sacks over that three-game span. They now face an improved but not impressive JAX offense that just lost one of their starting receivers for the season and possibly their star rookie WR for this game. All these injuries to the offense that is league average in scoring make this defense a solid top-15 streaming option that can get you a handful of points with upside.
