

WEEK 4 QB STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR PLAYERS ON LESS THAN 60% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

JARED GOFF (DET) VS SEA

Despite being a bit underwhelming last week, I'm still a believer as they will be facing one of the worse defenses (bottom ten in yards per play allowed, net yards per pass attempt, and % of drives that end with a score). They were also missing their starting three CBs last week against ATL. If two out of three remain out, this is a great opportunity for him to finish within the top 12.

MATT RYAN (IND) VS TEN

Despite my disdain for him, I cannot deny that this is a good matchup as TEN's defense is tied for the worse in the league in allowing the most passing TDs this season (8) and within the bottom ten in net yards per pass attempt and yards per play allowed. With their top two pass rushers out last week (Landry & Dupree), if Dupree misses this game, I would be optimistic that Ryan could surprise us all.

JACOBY BRISSETT (CLE) @ ATL

After his best performance of the season, he will have a favorable matchup against a bottom-ten ATL defense in yards per play allowed, net yards per pass attempt, and % of drives that end with a score, and passing TDs allowed. Brissett has been playing well, averaging 7.7 yards per play over the past two games, completing 74% of his attempts. Definitely a streamable option in this matchup with top-15 upside.

BAKER MAYFIELD (CAR) VS AZ

Instead of finding a safe option for 15 points, I figured, let's find someone who could finish with 20 points. While Mayfield has been awful over the past three games, the AZ passing defense has been equally terrible. They're dead last in net yards per pass attempt and yards per play. They also gave up seven touchdowns (tied for 2nd most) in three games. So if there was a bounce-back game, this is now or nothing.
