

WEEK 7 QB STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR PLAYERS ON LESS THAN 70% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

BRYCE YOUNG (CAR) @ NYJ

Throwing three touchdowns last week for the first time since Week 2, he finished as a top-10 QB despite not reaching 200 yards for the fourth straight game. Young is now facing an NYJ defense that is in the bottom ten in points allowed per game and struggling to get their first win. If the NYJ offense continues to struggle, then I can imagine Young will have opportunities to throw multiple touchdowns. The passing volume concerns me, but he's still a last resort top-15 streaming option.

2

AARON RODGERS (PIT) @ CIN

Out of the bye week, he performed well against a good CLE defense, throwing multiple touchdowns and over 225 yards. Facing a CIN defense that's in the bottom five in points allowed and passing yards allowed per game, Rodgers could have a big game if he connects on a deep shot with D.K. Metcalf. Unfortunately, this PIT offense is in the bottom ten in passing yards per game (haven't exceeded 250 yards in a game), so the upside is lower, making this a low-end high-floor top-15 streaming option.

3

C.J. STROUD (HOU) @ SEA

Coming off the bye week, he struggled to start the season, but had a great performance against BAL before the bye. Throwing multiple touchdowns in consecutive weeks and over 200 yards in four games this season, he will have a good chance to continue against a solid SEA defense that is a top-ten defense in points allowed. Despite that, they are beatable through the air, currently ranked in the bottom ten in passing yards allowed per game, making Stroud one of the preferred streaming options.

4

MICHAEL PENIX (ATL) @ SF

Coming off a decent game against a decent BUF defense, he has thrown over 250 yards and at least one touchdown in consecutive games. While he has been inconsistent, he's only thrown multiple touchdowns once this season. This week, against an injured SF defense that has given up at least 23 points in three straight games, they are not a great matchup, but good enough to consider streaming Penix as a boom-or-bust top 15 option.

FOLLOW US @AKAMAIFANTASY

WWW.AKAIMAIFANTASYFOOTBALL.COM