

WEEK 8 DEF STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR TEAMS ON LESS THAN 60% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

GREEN BAY PACKERS @ JAX

I understand they didn't perform well last week for fantasy football, but this top-five defense needs to be rostered in more leagues. They completely disrupted the HOU offense and generated multiple sacks, something they've done in three of their last four games. Now, they get to face a JAX offense that has looked better recently but is still below-average scoring. It isn't a great matchup, but leading the league in forcing turnovers and are a top streaming option if you don't have a top five defense.

LOS ANGELES CHARGERS VS NO

Despite the disappointing performance last week, they continued their season-long streak of allowing less than 21 points and forcing a turnover. Besides last week, they have forced multiple turnovers and generated multiple sacks in back-to-back weeks. Next up is an excellent matchup against a NO offense that recently lost its two starting WRs and QB, along with starters along the offensive line. I expect this offense to be manageable, making this defense one of the better streaming options.

NEW YORK GIANTS @ PIT

I'm not letting one game convince me that this PIT offense is good, even if they looked better with Russell Wilson. This NYG defense could have been better, but it has shown some signs of being dangerous in the right matchup. They have generated at least four sacks in five of their last six games and held their opponents to 21 points or less in five of those games, too. While there's undoubtedly some risk with streaming this top-ten defense, I consider it worth the potential upside if the PIT offense returns to Earth.

DETROIT LIONS VS TEN

Despite losing star pass rusher Aiden Hutchinson to injury, this defense performed well against a red-hot MIN offense, generating four sacks, which they did last week. They have also forced a turnover in every game this season and generated multiple sacks in four of their six games. With a great matchup against a TEN offense that is turnover-prone and has failed to surpass 20 points in all but one game this season. With a home game against NE next week, this may be a top streaming option for the next two weeks.
