

WAIVER ADDS WEEK 17

12/29/2020

These three players should be targeted in most 12 team leagues and are currently rostered in less than 50% of Yahoo leagues.

GUS EDWARDS - BAL @ CIN

Despite averaging single-digit carries, he has been a productive streaming option as he finished with double-digit points (0.5 PPR) in three of the last four games. Facing CIN this week, this matchup appears to be a promising opportunity for him to continue the trend of providing RB3 value as a spot start.

STERLING SHEPARD - NYG VS DAL

In PPR formats, he has been a serviceable WR3 when Daniel Jones is healthy. Coming off his best performance of the season, he gets a beatable DAL secondary. With the injury to Golden Tate, this gives me a little more optimism that he will continue his trend of over seven targets through the past five games, making him a floor option.

MICHAEL GALLUP - DAL @ NYG

This one is a ceiling play. Since the bye in Week 10, he has been a boom or bust option with double-digit performances in three games. With four touchdowns over the past four games, he has been showing some rapport with Andy Dalton. Facing NYG, the matchup isn't great, but I'm liking the upside and will consider him if I need to swing for the fences.

