

QB STREAM WEEK 12

11/24/2020

These five QB are streamable options and currently are rostered in less than 60% of Yahoo leagues.

DEREK CARR - LV @ ATL

Glad I still had hope because he shined with another strong performance against KC. If forced to keep up with a high powered offense, Carr is capable of that. Now facing ATL, I'm lowering my expectations but will consider him a top 12 option with all the injuries/uncertainty around the position. He also faces NYJ the following week, so you can be looking at a two-week starter if you need to.

BAKER MAYFIELD - CLE @ JAX

I'm intrigued by this matchup despite Baker not throwing a TD over the past three games against LV, HOU, & PHI. But facing JAX, I can't help but think he's breaking that streak. Weather conditions were against him the past two weeks; he's my last resort option if I need a QB with some upside for a multi TD performance.

KIRK COUSINS - MIN VS CAR

The coin flipped on the right side for him as he finished with over 300 yards and three touchdowns last week. Coming off of three solid performances, I'm intrigued against CAR, where it's not an intimidating matchup. If Teddy or CMC is active, then Cousins becomes a top 15 option. Cook's upside will always play a role in streaming Cousins, but I'm taking my chances if the other options aren't available.

TAYSOM HILL - NO @ DEN

I was skeptical that we would see a full game of Taysom Hill but was proven wrong. He didn't wildly impress me but looked solid the entire game. Facing DEN, I'm not excited to start him since I don't want to rely on two rushing TDs every game. But it helps to be on a good offense, and I believe he'll improve as he gets more comfortable.

ANDY DALTON - DAL VS WAS

I don't have much confidence over one game, but the offense looked much better, and it makes me think that they made some adjustments over the bye. Facing WAS next week, and while this could be an ugly low scoring game, the secondary has been vulnerable if they can protect against their pass rush. I'm looking at him as a spot start in superflex leagues.

