

WEEK 10 QB STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR PLAYERS ON LESS THAN 60% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

JIMMY GAROPPOLO (SF) VS LAC

Facing a defense that's vulnerable against the run, there's certainly a possibility that he may not have enough volume to finish within the top-12. However, he's been consistent recently, surpassing 250 yards in three of the last four games and throwing two touchdowns in that span. If you're in a superflex league, he's likely a high-end QB2 that you can start every week or stream as a bye-week filler in single QB leagues.

DANIEL JONES (NYG) VS HOU

Coming off a bye week, facing a bottom-five rushing defense in yards per attempt and rushing touchdown may not require Daniel Jones to throw the ball (only two games with 200+ passing yards); however, he has double-digit rush attempts in two of the last four games. He's too volatile to stream in single QB leagues; he's a boom-or-bust QB2 with some upside if he can score a rushing touchdown.

JARED GOFF (DET) @ CHI

While he didn't put up impressive numbers (first game under 200 passing yards), they were ahead the entire game after scoring the game's first points. He will likely need more than 15 points to keep up with the red-hot CHI offense, with Justin Fields's rushing ability scoring more than 28 points in three straight games. Facing a bottom-ten defense in points allowed, yards per play, and passing yards per attempt, he's a top-15 streaming option.

JACOBY BRISSETT (CLE) @ MIA

I chose Jacoby Brissett over Marcus Mariota due to the favorable matchup against a vulnerable MIA defense. MIA is a bottom-ten defense in passing yards per attempt, passing touchdowns, points allowed, and yards per play. Brissett has surpassed 250 passing yards in three straight games and throwing a touchdown in two of those games. He's only thrown more than one touchdown once this season, which makes him a low-ceiling QB2 in superflex leagues.
