

DEF STREAM WEEK 9

11/3/2020

These four DEF are streamable options and currently are rostered in less than 60% of Yahoo leagues.

HOUSTON TEXANS @ JAX

With Minshew injured, the team is starting a sixth-round rookie QB. That should be all I need to say to convince you that this is one of the top streaming options available. Even with Minshew, this offense has been sub-par the past few weeks. While this is not has been an excellent defense to start, you cannot overlook the match-up when it's this obvious.

GREEN BAY PACKERS VS SF

I know my recommendation of them backfired last week, but with a stroke of good luck, SF lost their starting QB and #1 offensive weapon among a list of injuries along both sides of the ball. I respect Kyle Shanahan; he will get his team prepared, but it's hard to imagine this team not taking advantage of all the injuries that the 49ers have and control the game.

ARIZONA CARDINALS VS MIA

Coming off a bye week, facing a rookie quarterback making his second appearance is pretty enticing as a streaming option. Throwing only 22 passes for less than 100 yards is not what you call an impressive debut. He may improve as the year goes on, but one week is not enough time, and this defense will have opportunities to capitalize on his rookie mistakes.

WASHINGTON FOOTBALL TEAM VS NYG

Another team coming off the bye week, facing a divisional rival at home that's coming off a close loss and a short week of practice? Count me in. While they underperformed against them in Week 6, this defensive front will continue to wreak havoc on Daniel Jones as they have throughout the season. This one is a floor play, as I expect them to create turnovers during the game.

