

WEEK 13 DEF STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR TEAMS ON LESS THAN 60% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

WASHINGTON COMMANDERS @ NYG

Would it surprise you if the last time this defense gave up over 24 points was in Week 4? They have forced multiple turnovers in two of their past three games and generated a sack in five consecutive games (11 total). They are also in the top 12 in sacks and are league-average against the run. Facing an injured NYG offense while the defense gets healthier (Chase Young) is a good recipe for a top-12 option with double-digit scoring upside.

PITTSBURGH STEELERS @ ATL

Since the bye week, they have looked impressive against below-average offenses (NO & IND) and are facing what I would consider a below-average offense in ATL. They are in the top five in rushing yards per attempt and rushing touchdowns despite being bottom five in passing yards per attempt and touchdowns. They have also forced multiple turnovers and sacks in each game, making them a top-15 option with top-ten upside despite the risk of the struggling secondary.

MINNESOTA VIKINGS VS NYJ

Disclaimer, I have Mike White as a QB2 streaming candidate this week. However, that doesn't mean that this isn't a decent matchup. NYG vs. WAS is another option I was considering, but I decided on MIN because the matchup is a little better. This defense is within the top ten in turnovers and generating multiple sacks in four of their last five games. I would consider them a top-15 option, where you can expect a handful of points.

SEATTLE SEAHAWKS @ LAR

Despite letting me down last week, I'm jumping back on the train because of this great matchup. With the LAR offense in complete shambles, this is a decent streaming option off matchup alone. To provide more context, they have forced multiple turnovers in seven of the last eight games, and I don't expect the LAR offense to score more than 24 points. This is one of the safer, high-floor options this week.
