

WEEK 14 DEF STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR TEAMS ON LESS THAN 55% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

NEW ORLEANS SAINTS @ NYJ

This defense has been somewhat inconsistent recently as they have been giving up more than 30 points in two of the past three games. However, they have also forced a turnover and a sack in those same three games. Facing a turnover-prone NYJ offense, this is a pretty good matchup with some upside for double-digit scoring. If the offense gets a bit more healthy, this could be the top option this week.

SEATTLE SEAHAWKS @ HOU

Not allowing more than 24 points since Week 5, this defense hasn't put up too many impressive games, but they have generated a sack and a turnover in three of the past four. Facing a depleted HOU offense, if QB Tyrod Taylor misses the game, this will be a high floor matchup with upside, making this another top streaming option worth rostering early.

CLEVELAND BROWNS VS BAL

Usually, I would stay away from this matchup. However, coming off of a bye week after a strong performance against the same opponent gives me more confidence in this defense. Facing a BAL offense that has given up more than one sack in three consecutive games, they're a solid option where the matchup may scare them away, despite holding their last two opponents under 20 points.

4

DENVER BRONCOS VS DET

Despite a somewhat disappointing performance last week, they face a subpar offense that got their first win this season. However, with five consecutive games of at least one turnover and a sack, they will likely repeat another solid performance that should get them a handful of points, if not more. In addition, they have the upside to score a defensive TD or hold them to under 14 points.
