

WEEK 6 DEF STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR TEAMS ON LESS THAN 60% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

GREEN BAY PACKERS VS CIN

Before the bye week, they were coming off their worst season performance and back-to-back losses. While they are not the best defense in the league, they are still above average and are facing a CIN offense that's in the bottom five in turnovers and points scored per game. The matchup alone makes them a streaming option, and considering they have held opponents to fewer than 20 points and generated multiple sacks in three games, they have top-ten upside and are one of the preferred options available.

INDIANAPOLIS COLTS VS AZ

While inconsistent, they are impressive, ranking in the top ten in points allowed per game and turnovers. They also generated at least three sacks and forced a turnover in all but one game. However, they gave up at least 27 points on two occasions. Facing an AZ offense that is dealing with some injuries, and if Kyler Murray ends up missing this game, this would be my top streaming option. Even with Murray healthy, they are a bottom-ten offense in points scored, making them a top 12 streaming option.

CLEVELAND BROWNS @ PIT

After recommending them last week, they performed decently, and I like this matchup against a PIT offense that ranks in the bottom ten in both passing and rushing yards per game. The risk is that the CLE offense is bad and can put this defense in tough positions where they can't win (DET & BAL). Despite that, they generated at least three sacks in all but one game this season. They also forced a turnover in three straight games. This will likely be a low-scoring game, making them a top-15 option.

LOS ANGELES RAMS @ BAL

This recommendation depends on whether Lamar Jackson is healthy. The BAL offense struggled last week, and against a LAR defense that has generated multiple sacks and forced a turnover in every game except for last week. Despite the disappointing performance last week, I'm optimistic that this top-ten defense in forcing turnovers and rushing yards allowed will bounce back against a BAL offense that had three turnovers last week. If you miss out on the above options, this is a decent top-15 streaming option.
