

WEEK 8 QB STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR PLAYERS ON LESS THAN 70% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

SAM DARNOLD (MIN) @ LAR

I understand that he's unavailable in most of your leagues (nor should he) because he's barely making the requirements for this weekly list. He currently does and is facing a LAR defense that is in the bottom ten in scoring and gets a beatable upcoming schedule against IND, JAX, and TEN. Darnold has been a solid streaming option this season, throwing multiple touchdowns in four games and surpassing 250 yards in two of his last three games. He's a top streaming option with top eight upside.

AARON RODGERS (NYJ) @ NE

With the addition of Davante Adams, Rodgers's floor has been boosted. He has been solid but not quite the top-12 quarterback we were hoping for, with some inconsistent performances. Despite throwing an INT in each of his last three games, he has also surpassed 240 yards and thrown two touchdowns in two of those games. I expect a bounce-back performance against an NE defense that just got exposed by JAX last week. I wouldn't consider him a top streaming option, but he is worth taking a chance on.

JUSTIN HERBERT (LAC) VS NO

I was disappointed with his performance last week, but he did reach a season-high in passing yards and surpassed 300 yards for the first time this season. The offense's struggle to score in the red zone is a concern, hence why I don't consider Herbert anything more than a last-resort streaming option against good matchups. While the NO defense is solid, I believe the injuries on offense will put this defense in tough positions, making it a good matchup.

BO NIX (DEN) VS CAR

I feel nervous typing this as I understand there's no floor for the rookie quarterback, but he has shown some flashes over the last few weeks, surpassing 200 yards and throwing two touchdowns in two of his previous three games. He now has a fantastic matchup against one of the worst defenses in the league (CAR). He's also been more involved as a rushing threat, reaching at least six attempts in his last three games and surpassing 60 rushing yards in two of them. He's a last-resort streaming option with an upside.
