

WEEK 13 WAIVERS

LOOKING FOR PLAYERS ON LESS THAN 50% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

PAT FREIERMUTH (TE) - PIT (6)

After missing four games and not being a factor last week, he has bounced back to be the lead option with over 100 receiving yards on double-digit targets. While I don't expect him to continue receiving this volume, the upside proves he's worth streaming and potentially being a weekly top-12 option. This was his first game this season with over four targets, and I wouldn't be too confident starting him until we can see if this was an anomaly or something more to come since the TE position has been rough.

2

JAYDEN REED/DEMARIO DOUGLAS (WR) - GB (6)/NE (11)

This was tough to find any waiver options that I haven't mentioned before, so I'll use this to remind you that both players deserved to be on more rosters than 50% of Yahoo leagues. Reed is an explosive secondary threat who scored a TD in four of their last six games and will have more opportunities with the injury to Luke Musgrave. Douglas is the primary receiving threat on a struggling offense, with at least five catches on seven targets in four straight games. That's tough to ignore on the waiver wire.

3

CADE OTTON (TE) - TB (5)

He's another TE option to consider rostering in PPR leagues due to showing some consistency within the offense as a secondary option. With at least four catches and 40 receiving yards in five of his last six games, he's been a low-upside TE for a handful of points. He's not someone I would start with confidence or roster in standard scoring leagues, but if you're dealing with injuries to the position, he's been a decent option to stash on your bench or stream against a good matchup.

4

D'ERNEST JOHNSON (RB) - JAX (9)

At this point of the season, most of the available RBs on the waivers are secondary options within a committee and/or an elite handcuff option that could be a top-24 option if the starter gets hurt. It's time to add his name to the list of handcuffs after a couple of decent performances where he surpassed 50 all-purpose yards in consecutive games. He's a speculative add similar to Tyler Allgeier or Antonio Gibson but is likely available in more leagues if the other two aren't.

FOLLOW US @AKAMAIFANTASY

WWW.AKAMAIFANTASYFOOTBALL.COM