

WEEK 8 QB STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR PLAYERS ON LESS THAN 60% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

DAVIS MILLS (HOU) VS TEN

I wanted to use this spot for Jameis Winston if he's healthy. However, if not, you can pivot to a risky low-end QB2 in superflex leagues. The reason he's here is that he has shown potential, surpassing 240 passing yards in three of the past four games and throwing two TDs in two of those games. Facing a bottom-ten defense in yards per pass attempt allowed and passing touchdowns gives me a reason to think he could have a good performance.

MARCUS MARIOTA (ATL) VS CAR

He wasn't impressive last week when you would think he'd have plenty of opportunities due to the game script. However, his ability as a rusher gives him the top-15 QB upside if he scores a rushing TD and throws more than 20 times in a game. There's certainly a risk, as he's failed to surpass 150 passing yards in four straight games and relies on TDs with limited volume.

TAYLOR HEINICKE (WAS) @ IND

Despite having the IND defense as a streaming candidate, I still believe that Heinicke is capable of a respectable performance as a bye-week filler in superflex leagues or larger single QB leagues. He showed some chemistry with Terry McLaurin and got into a rhythm last week that could end up with 15-18 points this week.

4

DANIEL JONES (NYG) @ SEA

After his impressive rushing performance last week, I wouldn't expect him to repeat that. He's been inconsistent, failing to throw over 200 yards in five games and throwing more than one TD twice this season. He's surpassed 40 rushing yards three times and scored a rushing TD in only two games. Despite all this, this is a decent matchup for a high-end QB2 or a streaming candidate in single QB leagues.
