

WEEK 5 DEF STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR TEAMS ON LESS THAN 60% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

ARIZONA CARDINALS VS TEN

This one feels obvious, given the struggling TEN offense, which scored at least 20 points just once this season and was shut out last week. This AZ defense hasn't been impressive, but they have generated multiple sacks and forced a turnover in two of their previous three games. While they have given up more than 20 points twice this season, I am confident that they will continue to generate pressure and force the rookie QB to make a mistake. Due to the upside, they are one of my preferred streaming options.

2

CLEVELAND BROWNS VS MIN

Despite being one of the best defenses in the league, they have not been a top defense in fantasy football. Coming off a bad performance, they are facing a MIN offense that gave up six sacks and multiple turnovers last week. While this CLE defense has given up over 30 points in two of its previous three games, it has also generated at least three sacks in its first three games. Considering they are facing a backup QB and dealing with multiple injuries to their offensive line, they are one of my top streaming options.

3

KANSAS CITY CHIEFS @ JAX

Dominating a good BAL offense, and has looked like a solid streaming option, generating multiple sacks in every game this season. Recently, they have forced multiple turnovers in back-to-back games and are facing a JAX offense that scored over 24 points in three games this season. While the matchup isn't great, they'll continue to pressure the QB and be one of the better defenses that JAX has faced so far. While there's risk, I wouldn't be too disappointed if I streamed them as a top-15 option.

4

LOS ANGELES RAMS VS SF

While this defense hasn't had a top-five performance, they have generated multiple sacks and forced a turnover in every game so far, against good PHI and IND offenses in recent weeks. Now they're facing an injured SF offense that is currently bottom-five in turnovers. Despite allowing at least 20 points in back-to-back games, I'm optimistic that they will slow down the SF offense despite the return of Brock Purdy. If I needed upside, I would choose another option, but if I need a handful of points, they are a solid streaming choice
