

WEEK 12 QB STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR PLAYERS ON LESS THAN 60% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

MARCUS MARIOTA (ATL) @ WAS

Coming off back-to-back decent performances against CAR & CHI, he will have a tougher matchup against a solid run-defense as WAS. However, they are a bottom-ten defense in passing TDs, and redzone attempts allowed. He has yet to surpass 200 passing yards since Week 8 and has been able to use his rushing ability to bolster his lackluster numbers. He's a boom-or-bust QB2 in superflex leagues that will come down to his ability to score more than one TD (three of the past five games).

TAYLOR HEINICKE (WAS) VS ATL

Despite a horrible performance regarding fantasy football, he did play well for the most part as a game manager as they blew out HOU. Unfortunately, he failed to surpass 200 passing yards or throw a touchdown (first time this season), and he will be looking to bounce back against a bottom-ten defense in points allowed, passing yards per attempt, and passing touchdowns. Nevertheless, he's a mid-tier QB2 in superflex leagues that may have some top-15 upside.

RYAN TANNEHILL (TEN) VS CIN

Since returning from injury, he has played great, considering he was against some solid defenses (DEN & GB). Facing a CIN offense that will likely score some points, if TEN wants to win, they will need Tannehill to keep playing like he has been (surpassing 250 passing yards and throwing two touchdowns in consecutive games). He's the only option that I would consider in single QB leagues. However, he could regress and fail to reach 200 passing yards or throw a touchdown, making him boom-or-bust.

KENNY PICKETT (PIT) @ IND

It was between Pickett or Zach Wilson/Joe Flacco, and I'm willing to ride the momentum of the rookie QB, who has looked better since coming out of the bye week. However, he hasn't thrown more than one TD this season, so the upside is incredibly low as he gains more consistency (averaging over 200 passing yards over the past four games). Obviously, this is a desperation QB2 option in superflex leagues that you're hoping to get 12-18 points but is on a path to become a regular streaming option.
