

WEEK 13 QB STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR PLAYERS ON LESS THAN 70% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

MATTHEW STAFFORD (LAR) @ NO

I know I keep listing him, but he has been too consistent to ignore. Coming off another solid performance against a decent PHI defense, he has continued to be a top-12 option, throwing for over 240 yards and multiple touchdowns in four of his last five games. Facing a NO defense that is in the bottom five in passing yards allowed and around league average in points allowed, it's an okay matchup that would make Stafford one of the safer top-12 streaming options.

RUSSELL WILSON (PIT) @ CIN

Despite a couple of disappointing games, I haven't given up on Wilson becoming a top-15 streaming option against good matchups. Facing a CIN defense that has given up at least 34 points in three of their last four games, Wilson has an excellent opportunity to throw multiple touchdowns (done once in the previous three games). I'm not extremely confident in Wilson since the PIT offense has regressed, but if you are desperate, he has enough upside worth streaming in single QB leagues.

CALEB WILLIAMS (CHI) @ DET

Honestly, I don't feel great about this matchup, as this defense has been a top-ten defense in passing yards allowed and top-five in points allowed. Even with Williams playing better, coming off his best game since the bye week, I'm streaming him with the anticipation of some garbage time stats if this is a blowout. I wouldn't be expecting him to repeat last week's performance, but I think a top-15 performance is within range.

WILL LEVIS (TEN) @ WAS

This seems crazy, but he's looked serviceable recently, as he surpassed 275 passing yards in consecutive games and multiple touchdowns in two of his last three games. Facing a WAS defense that's vulnerable against the run is not the best matchup for him either. However, this recent string of decent games gives me optimism that he can be a spot start in the right matchup. I prefer any of the above options listed, but in superflex leagues, he's a decent QB2 despite the risk.
