

WEEK 6 QB STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR PLAYERS ON LESS THAN 50% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

TEDDY BRIDGEWATER- (DEN) - VS LV

Despite dealing with a good PIT defense, Teddy played well, throwing for more than 275 yards and two touchdowns. He has been solid for most of the season (two passing TDs in three games) and faces an LV defense with some injuries within the secondary. As a result, there are not too much attractive streaming options this week, and he's one of the very few floor options that should score double digits.

2

CARSON WENTZ - (IND) - VS HOU

The offense showed flashes against a capable BAL defense last week, with one of his best games of the season (over 400 yards). Facing an HOU defense that has been inconsistent at best, this is a spot start opportunity with some risk since this could be a game where they won't be heavily utilizing the passing game to win. However, that is not enough to have me altogether avoid him in superflex leagues.

3

TAYLOR HEINICKE - (WAS) - VS KC

Heinicke has all the necessary ingredients to put up a big fantasy performance if you're not afraid of a boom or bust option. Facing a struggling KC defense, he will have opportunities to score and is capable of solid performances (two games with over 275 yards and two TDs). The risk is that it may take garbage time for him to reach those numbers again, and he may have a lousy game similar to last week.

4

TREVOR LAWRENCE - (JAX) - VS MIA

Another boom or bust option with the upside to put up a solid performance but has struggled with turnovers and inconsistencies that could make him too risky to stream against a decent MIA defense. He hasn't thrown more than one TD since Week one but scored a rushing TD in consecutive games. He is another last resort option in superflex leagues with the first bye week of the season underway.
