

WEEK 13 DEF STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR TEAMS ON LESS THAN 60% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

JACKSONVILLE JAGUARS VS CIN

After a mediocre performance last week, this defense hasn't forced a turnover in two of their three games (still top ten). However, they have generated more than one sack in five of their last six games and get to face a CIN offense that gave up four sacks and a turnover last week. With Joe Burrow's injury, the offense has lost its upside and, against good defenses will struggle to score points. This defense is top-five against the run and is a high-floor top-12 option with upside if they can force a turnover or two.

2

ATLANTA FALCONS @ NYJ

Despite not considered a good defense, they face an NYJ offense that has looked awful and gave defenses top-ten performances in five straight weeks. This offense is also in the bottom ten in turnovers and points per game, and ATL has forced a turnover and generated multiple sacks in four of their last five games. With Tim Boyle as the starter, the offense will likely struggle again. I wouldn't expect a top-five upside from this defense, but I'm confident this is another high-floor top-12 streaming defense.

3

TAMPA BAY BUCCANEERS VS CAR

Another streaming opportunity based on the matchup, this TB defense has generated multiple sacks and forced a turnover in four of their last five games. They also faced decent offenses in BUF, SF, and HOU on the road and now are at home against a bottom-five scoring offense in the league. This is also a top-12 defense in forcing turnovers and rushing yards allowed, and CAR hasn't reached 17 points in five straight games. Despite being a divisional matchup, I'm confident this is worth a spot start.

4

LOS ANGELES RAMS VS CLE

It was between the two LA defenses, and it came down to the possible risks. I believe the LAR defense to be a safer option because they are facing one of the most turnover-prone offenses that has failed to surpass 14 points in back-to-back games at home. They are league-average against the run and have held their opponents to less than 21 points in three straight games. Regardless of who starts at QB for CLE, I'll treat this defense as a riskier option with a top-eight upside if I miss one of the above options.

FOLLOW US @AKAMAIFANTASY

WWW.AKAMAIFANTASYFOOTBALL.COM