

WEEK 10 DEF STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR TEAMS ON LESS THAN 60% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

NEW YORK GIANTS VS HOU

Coming off the bye week, they have been playing relatively well. They have not allowed more than 20 points in four of their last five and forced multiple sacks and a turnover in three of those games. Facing a HOU offense that hasn't scored more than 20 points since Week 4, this seems safe despite them being a bottom-five run defense in rush yards per attempt. I wouldn't consider them a first option but a top-15 floor option for six to seven points.

TENNESEE TITANS VS DEN

Would it surprise you if they were tied for a top-12 defense so far into the season? They're currently top-12 in redzone attempts, redzone TD%, sacks, turnovers, and rushing yards per attempt. In addition, they held their opponents to less than 21 points in five straight games, averaging three sacks and at least one turnover. Regardless if DEN's offense improves, I would consider this a top-12 streaming defense.

SEATTLE SEAHAWKS @ TB

Despite being a top-12 defense this season, they aren't on enough rosters and, unfortunately, will be on their bye week after this week, so you may be forced to drop them shortly. However, they have generated 19 sacks and held their opponents to under 17 points in three of the past four games, and forced multiple turnovers in seven games this season. They will likely regress, but against a vulnerable TB offense, I'm confident they can force turnovers and generate pressure.

4

DENVER BRONCOS @ TEN

This is one of the few games in a season where both defenses will likely finish as top-15 candidates, regardless of who wins the game. With the injury to Ryan Tannehill, the TEN offense has been extremely run-heavy, which is DEN's weakness (bottom ten in rush yards per attempt). However, DEN's defense is top three in points allowed, yards per play, red zone attempts, red zone TD%, passing yards, and passing TD. Coming off a bye-week, this is an easy pickup if available.
