

QB STREAM WEEK 9

11/3/2020

These five QB are streamable options and currently are rostered in less than 60% of Yahoo leagues.

DEREK CARR - LV @ LAC

I know he underperformed, but I mainly blame the weather for this one. It also didn't help that the Browns couldn't score either to keep it competitive. Now facing LAC, who recently traded away a part of their secondary, there's another opportunity for him to put up top 15 numbers despite being available in more than half of leagues.

TEDDY BRIDGEWATER - CAR @ KC

Teddy was having a great game last week until he got injured late in the third quarter. Remember, he has been more than ok with over 250 yards and two touchdowns in three of the last five games. With CMC on the way, that would only provide more conviction to start him against the KC offense that will force them to keep up if they want to win.

KIRK COUSINS - MIN VS DET

Now, if the above two options are gone, then this is where it gets tricky. With Cook dominating last week, the team didn't need to use Cousins (14 passing attempts). Facing DET, I'm not expecting 250 yards and three touchdowns, but there are not many options beyond this point that I'm comfortable with. He's inconsistent, but at this point, the upside is what separates him from the next two below.

DREW LOCK - DEN @ ATL

This recommendation is purely for the match-up. While the ATL defense has improved over the past three weeks, it wouldn't surprise me to see Lock have one of his better games as they will be throwing the ball to stay competitive. I'm not trying to pick him up, but if you're a Minshew/Garoppolo/Fitzpatrick/Dak manager, I won't blame you.

KYLE ALLEN - WAS VS NYG

Sometimes I wish I only had to recommend four QBs instead of five. Well, coming off of two solid games (two touchdowns) against NYG and DAL, he gets to face NYG again at home coming off of the bye week. While he hasn't been impressive, he has shown some life running the offense that I wouldn't be totally against starting him in a superflex league for this matchup.

