

WEEK 13 DEF STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR TEAMS ON LESS THAN 55% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

MINNESOTA VIKINGS @ DET

Despite giving up more than 30 pts in three of the past four games, they have also created more than one sack and a turnover in that same span. Facing a DET offense that could be missing their best playmaker, the matchup is too good to ignore. If they can get healthier along the defensive line, this is likely the top streaming option available.

MIAMI DOLPHINS VS NYG

Coming off one of their best performances of the season, they are facing an NYG offense that has scored more than 20 pts in three of the past four games. Generating at least four sacks in three of the past four games, they have been playing well recently, and I'm optimistic that they'll get close to continuing that trend. I'm wary that this could backfire, but that doesn't stop me if I have no options.

KANSAS CITY CHIEFS VS DEN

I would probably only start this defense if Drew Lock is the starting QB for DEN. Allowing less than 20 pts in four consecutive games, they have been playing well recently, generating more than one turnover in the past three games. I'm not too confident on the upside if Teddy plays, but I still think there's a floor for a handful of points since I believe this defense will make some plays.

4

CINCINNATI BENGALS VS LAC

This recommendation doesn't look like a good matchup on paper. However, the CIN defense has created more than one sack and one turnover in three of their past four games. Facing a LAC offense that has given up an INT in three consecutive games, this could be another multi-turnover performance. There's undoubtedly risk as this LAC offense can score, but the upside is well worth it.
