

WEEK 10 QB STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR PLAYERS ON LESS THAN 70% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

TUA TAGOVAILOA (MIA) @ LAR

He looked a bit underwhelming his first week back, but he looked a little better last week, averaging around 230 passing yards and throwing three touchdowns in the last two games. He is a top streaming option with great matchups against LAR, LV, and NE in the next three weeks, and if the offense doesn't perform, then I would be genuinely concerned. Currently, all the offensive weapons are healthy, and I expect the offense to flash some of the upsides we saw last season.

AARON RODGERS (NYJ) @ ARI

He hasn't been great, but he's been putting up those top 15 numbers that make him a great streaming option, throwing over 200 yards in seven straight games and multiple touchdowns in four of his last five games. Facing a bottom-ten ARI defense in passing yards, the trend will likely continue as the offense continues to incorporate Davante Adams. He may not have the passing volume to crack into the top five, but he still can be a QB1 against most matchups with a decent floor due to touchdowns.

JUSTIN HERBERT (LAC) VS TEN

Over the past two games, he has thrown over 275 passing yards and two touchdowns and has upcoming matchups against TEN, CIN, and BAL at home. While he may not continue this trend over the next three games, I don't expect the offense to struggle, making him a high-floor option, as he is averaging more than 275 passing yards in the last four games and surpassed 300 yards for the first time this season. His touchdown volume is still low, so he wouldn't be more than a solid streaming option.

4

DANIEL JONES (NYG) @ CAR

Coming off a decent performance against an improved WAS defense, he now faces an injured CAR defense that is the worst in the league in points allowed and rushing yards. This is purely due to matchup, as Jones has been inconsistent with such a low floor that he's been nothing more than a last-resort streaming option in superflex leagues. But if you miss on the other three options I mentioned above, you can have someone with top-12 upside if he scores a rushing TD or throws a couple of touchdowns.
