

WEEK 7 DEF STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR TEAMS ON LESS THAN 60% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

GREEN BAY PACKERS VS HOU

I know this isn't the best matchup, but this top-five defense needs to be rostered in more leagues and is a weekly starting option against most matchups. Last week was the first game where the defense didn't generate a sack, but they continued to force multiple turnovers and held their opponents to 14 points or less in four of their last five games. Against a HOU offense that has been closer league average, they will be one of my preferred streaming options.

LOS ANGELES CHARGERS @ AZ

While they are not great, they have been consistently solid, holding their opponents to 17 points or less in four of their last five games. They also generated multiple sacks in every game this season and forced multiple turnovers in three of those five games. Facing an AZ offense that can run the ball but is league average in scoring, and if rookie WR Marvin Harrison Jr misses this game, this seems to be a high-floor streaming matchup where you won't get double digits but a solid top 10-15 performance.

NEW ENGLAND PATRIOTS @ JAX

While this defense hasn't been great, this feels like one of those spontaneous moments where they beat up on a bad team, and JAX seems out of sorts recently despite the improved offense. I also believe the improved NE offense will put the defense in better positions. They are currently tied for the bottom ten in scoring offense and only recently strung together some strong performances. This is a complete last-resort streaming option, as the floor is lower than most would like.

4

NEW YORK GIANTS VS PHI

Over the past five games, this defense has been playing better. They generated at least four sacks in four of those games. They also held their opponents to 20 points or less in four games and are currently a top-12 defense. Facing a healthier PHI offense but still not at its best could be a sneaky streaming option, as this offense failed to surpass 20 points in three straight games. This may not be my top streaming option, but they are a decent spot start that may be worth rostering another week against PIT.
