

WEEK 9 QB STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR PLAYERS ON LESS THAN 70% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

DEREK CARR (NO) @ CAR

This is purely a matchup play against the awful CAR defense and is a very risky streaming option since we are still determining if he will return for sure. All signs point to him returning, but we have yet to determine. He also hasn't been great after his hot start to the season, failing to reach 200 yards in two of his last three games and not throwing more than one touchdown in one of them. The loss of Rashid Shaheen limits the upside, making Carr one of the last-resort streaming options.

2

AARON RODGERS (NYJ) VS HOU

While the team has been losing, Rodgers has been okay in recent weeks. He gives you just enough production not to cost you your game, but he is not winning them either. Throwing multiple touchdowns and over 230 yards in three of his last four games is solid, and I expect him to continue to develop his rapport with Davante Adams. Facing an HOU defense that has given up at least 20 points in five straight games, it's not a great matchup, but it's good enough to make him a decent streaming option.

3

JAMEIS WINSTON (CLE) VS LAC

A tough matchup this week, with a limited sample size on Winston's strong performance last week, does make me hesitate. However, I cannot deny that if he's even close to what we saw last week, he's a solid streaming option for top-15 production with top-five upside. He does have a bye week after this and a tough schedule afterward (NO, PIT x2, DEN) so I wouldn't be rostering him in single QB leagues unless I was streaming him, but he should be rostered in all superflex leagues.

4

MATTHEW STAFFORD (LAR) @ SEA

This is definitely cheating, considering I mentioned him in my waiver wire report, but he also qualifies here and is one of the top streaming options this week. Coming off his best game of the season, he faces an SEA defense that has given up over 30 points in three of their last five games. The return of Puka Nacua and Cooper Kupp raises the offense dramatically and Stafford instantly becomes a top-15 option with top ten upside on a weekly basis against any decent matchup.

FOLLOW US @AKAMAIFANTASY

WWW.AKAIMAIFANTASYFOOTBALL.COM