

WEEK 3 WAIVERS

LOOKING FOR PLAYERS ON LESS THAN 45% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

JAMES WHITE - RB (NE) - WK 14 BYE

One of the forgotten names within the off-season, there were questions regarding his role depending on the starting QB. Over the past two games, he has consistently been a receiving threat (six catches) while also getting a handful of carries. In PPR scoring formats, he could be a decent bench option to fill in for injuries. There's no week-winning upside, but his floor as the receiving back helps.

2

HUNTER RENFROW. - WR (LV) - WK 8 BYE

Another PPR guy has a consistent role within the offense (16 targets over two games) and has been solid over the past two weeks finishing with over 50 yards in each game. Going against solid defenses in BAL and PIT, he's convinced me that he'll have a consistent role within the offense despite not being a primary threat. He won't have big games, but steady double-digit points from your flex aren't bad either.

3

RONDALE MOORE - WR (AZ) - WK 12 BYE

Breaking out for 114 yards and a TD on seven catches last week, he has shown why he could be the second option at some point during the season. He's still competing for snaps with A.J. Green as a rookie, and I believe he will start over him before the end of the year is over. He has been making plays even with the limited playing time, and I consider him a bench stash to see if his role grows within the offense.

4

JALEN REAGOR - WR (PHI) - WK 14 BYE

This spot could've gone to RB J.D. McKissic, but I decided on Reagor because I have more faith in his role within the offense. He has been consistent with five targets or more and had opportunities for some big plays (almost had a TD last week). He will continue to benefit from Devonta Smith's defensive attention and is another bench stash to see if his role continues to grow within the offense.

WEEK 3 QB STREAMERS

1

TEDDY BRIDGEWATER - QB (DEN) - VS NYJ

Another week, I mention Teddy, who played well, finishing with over 325 yards and a couple of touchdowns. He's been a solid passer who is smart and doesn't make too many mistakes (no INT). He faces a rebuilding NYJ defense, and I feel confident that he will continue his run of being a good streaming option with another 250+ yards and a couple of touchdowns.

2

SAM DARNOLD - QB (CAR) - @ HOU

After a couple of solid performances, particularly last week, he has looked promising as a streaming option against good matchups. Going against HOU that lost their starting QB, he could end up with another 275 yards and a touchdown or two. While I'm not convinced that Darnold will keep this up, I don't imagine a considerable drop-off this week.

3

DEREK CARR - QB (LV) - VS MIA

I've been impressed with how he has looked over the past two games against good defenses (BAL & PIT). With Jacobs injured, the offense has relied on him to carry the team. He's finished with over 375 yards and had two TDs each game. I don't foresee this hot streak lasting all season, but against a decent MIA defense, I'm not too worried about it ending here.

4

DANIEL JONES - QB (NYG) - VS ATL

We all know that rushing QBs tend to be more productive than those who aren't in fantasy football. With nine carries for 95 yards and a TD, he has become a rushing threat for the offense, with Saquon still working his way back from injury. Jones has also shown some improvement as a passer, and the addition of Golladay opens things up for the offense. Facing a struggling ATL defense, I like my chances.

WEEK 3 DEF STREAMERS

LOOKING FOR TEAMS ON LESS THAN 50% OF ROSTERS IN YAHOO

1

CAROLINA PANTHERS @ HOU

This defense looks improved from last year with two impressive performances and could provide some value against good matchups. Facing an HOU offense that lost their starting QB, I like the chances of this defense generating turnovers and limiting them to 10-14 points this game. This would be my priority out of the four, but I wouldn't feel too bad about some options below.

2

NEW YORK GIANTS VS ATL

This one is more of a gamble as this defense has not played well over the past two weeks. I don't think this defense is as bad as it's more than the ATL offense is terrible. I don't believe this will be a high-scoring affair and the possibility of turnovers are decent. (Matt Ryan threw 3 INT last week) I can also see a game where ATL bounces back, but it's worth the risk if you miss out on the other options here.

3

LAS VEGAS RAIDERS VS MIA

The defense was solid the past two weeks against BAL and PIT, generating sacks and creating turnovers. Facing against an MIA offense that got shut out last week and is possibly missing their starting QB to injury? There's some upside for this defense and I would pick him up and see if MIA starts Jacoby Brisset which would provide the floor and make this defense one of the top streaming options.

4

CHICAGO BEARS VS @ CLE

I liked them last week against CIN, and I want them this week too. Of course, CLE has a much better offensive line and will score some points. But the injuries to the WR core limit the offense, and that only benefits this CHI defense. Even if OBJ returns, this team will rely on running the ball against a good front seven. This floor option is for those who want five points so that they don't lose their matchup.
